Who can post in the e.MILE People Development Magazine?

We accept articles from Industry writers and experts

Our audience are Leaders, Managers, HR Leaders, Business Owners and anyone interested in Personal Growth. If you have knowledge or expertise which can be shared with this audience which will enable their own or their team's development, then you are able to contribute. If you would like to promote your business, then please see our business promotion pack. If you are a PR Agency or a freelance writer wanting to promote other people's links, then please download our Media Pack.

Once signed up as an Author, you are able to contribute as many original articles as you like each month. Articles will be published usually within 7 days from submission. Articles will be featured and tweeted throughout our social media platforms, at least once. Most Articles will be featured and shared for up to 4 - 6 months after publication.

We Only Accept Original Articles

All articles must be original and not published elsewhere. This is to avoid search engine penalties for duplicate content, which are severe and can affect both websites involved in posting duplicate content. After a period of 30 days, authors may repost articles elsewhere as long as we are informed in advance. When articles are published elsewhere, we mark our version as "no index, no follow". This means your article posted on the magazine will not be found by search engines, but we will still share the content to our network. Reposts must be tagged with the original link.

Articles must comply with our terms and conditions and we reserve the right to refuse to publish inappropriate material.

How you can share previously published material.

When you get published in our directory, your blog can be shared through our twitter feed. After taking up membership, email us your Blog RSS URL and we will run your regular blog through our twitter feed. If you have bought a promotional package, and you would like us to share a repurposed article, then we will no-index; no follow the article, while sharing with our vast audience.

What types of articles can be posted in the e. MILE People Development Magazine?

We post articles, features, news and adverts which reflect our core target market. Our core target market are Leaders, Managers, HR Leaders, Business Owners and people interested in Personal Growth. The broad topics we accept for the magazine are articles about:

- Leadership and Management
- Human Resources (including Health and Wellbeing)
- Personal Development

Our Categories, are standard: Leadership, Human Resources, Personal Growth, Managing People, Change, Business and Entrepreneurship, Book Review, Quotes, Interviews. We will also feature infographics, quizzes or other interesting content for readers.

Writing an Article - Guidelines

- Individual posts should run between 400 and 1000 words.
- Posts should be written in a clear, engaging and accessible first-person style that minimizes jargon and buzz words.
- The most successful articles contain interesting perspectives and new ideas, “how to” and experiences of the author.
- Articles should “add value” to the reader and give them some interesting information to read and think about, and should not be promotional.
- We will not publish an article without a completed bio. The bio contains all your contact information, so there is no need to input this information at the bottom, or the body of your article.

About Links in your Article

- Your article should contain no more than 2 back links, these should not be keywords. (I.e. not Leadership Development or Human Resources, any of our keywords, or category words). Submitting an URL www.xxxxx.co.uk is acceptable. If more than 2 back links appear in the article, then we will automatically invalidate links, or refuse publication. We know you are anxious to share, but it is mutually beneficial to maintain good quality content and share expertise rather than write posts simply for backlinks.
- Links to your site are clickable and available for readers, but because of Google’s penalties for guest blogging in order to gather backlinks, posts are marked as “No Follow”. Your articles will still be included to be indexed by search engines.
- External links to interesting information for readers are accepted as long as they aren’t promotional.

SEO guidelines:

- Your article should contain a keyword or key phrase. This keyword or key phrase will describe your article in a nutshell.
- Develop an engaging heading. Studies show that the most engaging headings are those which are read most. Your heading must include your keyword or key phrase.
- Your article keyword or key phrase should appear 2 – 3 times for every 200 words.
- Include external link(s) to other useful information the reader might be interested in.
- An SEO checklist is available underneath the post, if you are familiar with this, please complete, otherwise, the magazine team will optimise your post. We may make minor changes which do not change the substance of the article, but will help the article more likely be indexed by search engines.

Images

- Please upload a featured image for your article. You must have the right to use the image with your article, and therefore we ask that you credit the image with the original source. We take copyright infringement seriously, and if an image is credited incorrectly, we accept no liability for any damages or legal action as a result. If you do not credit your source, we will use one from our own stock. If you do not upload an image, we will use one from our own stock.

Accuracy

- You as the author are responsible for the content you post, meaning any facts, dates etc. Should be correct and you should also spell check your article before submitting it.
- Although you as the author are responsible for the content you sent us, we have the final say on headlines, illustrations and placement of the article. If necessary we also require authors to confirm exclusive copyright, including the right to electronic distribution.
